VODAFONE MAIL DELIVERS
THE RIGHT MESSAGE FOR BUSINESS

Vodafone UK launches Vodafone Mail for Professional and Easy Management of Multiple Message Formats, including Email & Enhanced Voicemail

Vodafone UK today announced the launch of Vodafone Mail, an enhanced voicemail service that presents voicemail, email and fax messages in a single inbox. Targeted at one-man-band businesses through to large corporates seeking a more professional and productive voicemail service, Vodafone Mail can be accessed via any Vodafone mobile phone, wireless enabled Personal Digital Assistants (PDAs) or the web. Access to the service is free, with usage being charged at prevailing pre-pay and contract price-plans.

Users of Vodafone Mail benefit by receiving and responding to messages irrespective of how they were originated. For example, business people on the move may ask the system to read out the contents of emails to them over their mobile phone and then respond by recording a voice message, which is attached to the email and sent back to the originator, to be played on their PC.

Russell Jones, Product Manager from Vodafone UK commented: Vodafone Mail allows businesses to keep in touch with customers and colleagues with a reliable and time saving messaging service, helping them to remain productive even when they're on the move. It's about bringing down the barriers between different technologies and providing the option of one access point to manage business critical messages more easily and efficiently. It's about controlling your messages before they control you.

Vodafone Mail provides a range of choices to take account of individual user preferences and the increasing range of wireless handheld mobile devices available on the market. Whether using a phone, PDA or the Web, users are notified as soon as they receive any type of message (voicemail, email or fax). Messages are delivered in a convenient format chosen by the user, no matter how they were originated (such as listening to emails being read out). The user can then action messages in a choice of formats, create and send messages to a group of colleagues, or even obtain a paper copy by printing to a nearby fax machine.

Key Features of Vodafone Mail:

Using a Vodafone mobile phone: Just dial 242 to

- Manage Voicemails
- Listen to emails read out by the system
- Print emails, attachments or faxes to a fax machine
- Distribute voice messages to other Vodafone Mail users
- Reply to an email with a voice message, automatically attached to the email

Using the Web or an Intranet via a PC:

- Manage email (e.g. view, reply, compose, forward)
- Aggregate mail from multiple external email servers
- Listen to and compose voice messages
- View faxes and forward them to others
- Compose a SMS text message

VODAFONE ANNOUNCES FINANCING PLANS FOR CEGETEL ACQUISITIONS

Vodafone Group Plc (Vodafone) announces today its financing plans for the proposed acquisitions of interests in Cegetel Groupe S.A. (Cegetel) including details of a new 3.5bn bank term loan which matures January 2006 (the Facility) and which is available on completion of the acquisition.

On 16 October 2002, Vodafone and its wholly-owned subsidiary Vodafone AG announced an agreement to acquire BT Group plc s (BT) and SBC Communications Inc. s (SBC) entire Cegetel interests for 6.3bn in cash, and a non-binding equivalent cash offer of 6.77bn for Vivendi Universal S.A. s (Vivendi) 44% interests in Cegetel.

The Facility, which has been underwritten by six Mandated Lead Arrangers and Joint Bookrunners comprising ABN AMRO, Bank of America, Barclays Capital, Citigroup, The Royal Bank of Scotland (the Agent) and WestLB, is available for drawing provided pre-emption rights which Vivendi has over BT s and SBC s Cegetel interests are either waived or expire and provided the total consideration due in respect of the acquisitions in Cegetel exceeds 5bn.

Syndication to Vodafone s core relationship banks and other selected banks is expected to commence in early November prior to the announcement of Vodafone s interim results on 12 November 2002.

The drawn margin on the Facility is linked to Vodafone s credit ratings over the term of the Facility. Fitch affirmed Vodafone s stable outlook and long term credit ratings at A and short term credit ratings at F1 on 16 October 2002. On 17 October 2002, Standard & Poor s affirmed Vodafone s stable outlook and long term credit ratings at A and short term credit ratings at A1 and Moody s, although changing Vodafone s outlook to negative, affirmed Vodafone s long term credit ratings at A2 and short term credit ratings at P1. Based on these current ratings, had Vodafone drawn on the Facility as of today, the interest on the Facility would have been EURIBOR plus 40 basis points.

If Vivendi does not exercise its pre-emption rights and accepts Vodafone's non-binding cash offer of 6.77bn for its 44% interest in Cegetel, Vodafone would pay 13.07bn in cash to increase its interest in Cegetel to 100%. In addition to the 3.5bn Facility, Vodafone currently has over 8 billion of cash available and, in the event it purchases all remaining interests in Cegetel, expects to raise further funding using its existing US dollar and Euro commercial paper programmes, which are supported by an undrawn $11.025bn revolving credit facility. Vodafone currently has approximately 3bn of total commercial paper outstandings.

Vodafone does not need to raise funds in the bond markets to finance these acquisitions. On 18 October 2002, Vodafone cancelled $174m of its $1,750m February 2005 dollar bond that had previously been repurchased.

VODAFONE LIVE!

EASY ACCESS TO A NEW WORLD OF COLOUR, SOUND,

PICTURES AND INFORMATION

Vodafone UK today sets a new standard for future mobile communications. Under the banner of Vodafone live!, for the first time customers have access to a combination of colour, sound, pictures and information on the very latest handsets via an easy-to-use, colour, icon-based menu.

As significant as the switch from black and white to colour televisions, Vodafone live! brings together the best technology, games, ringtones, information and services on offer today. Using Vodafone's unique interface, customers can access the range of services simply at the touch of a single button.

On sale from Friday 25 October, Vodafone live! also heralds the introduction of picture messaging for both pay monthly and pay as you talk customers, a first amongst the UK networks.

Designed to meet the real needs of customers, the gateway to Vodafone live! and its services is through the unique colour live! menu. By clicking on one of 8 icons, customers can transport themselves into a world of downloadable arcade games, information, images and polyphonic ringtones.

FREE PROMOTION

There is no separate monthly charge for Vodafone live!, but as an introduction to the new service, and in particular picture messaging, both picture messaging and browsing the extensive content will be free for the next three months. From February 2003, customers will be charged 36p per picture message.

UNIQUE RANGE OF HANDSETS

Vodafone live! will be available on a range of handsets, costing from £199.99, including the Sharp GX10 (exclusive to Vodafone), Panasonic GD87 and Nokia 7650. The Sharp boasts a specially developed 'hot button' for rapid access to the Vodafone live! menu, a built-in camera, high-quality colour screen, polyphonic sound and the best gaming experience available on a mobile phone. Its large screen which boasts twice as many colours as those in a Gameboy's, easy-to-use keypad, realistic noises and 'rumble' facility ensures that mobile gaming is challenging and realistic.

Edgar Filing: VODAFONE GROUP PUBLIC LTD CO - Form 6-K

The Sharp comes with 4 pre-loaded games, including the exclusive Stormy Sight, with a further 60 available to download at launch costing up to £5 per game, including many from leading games designers. Once a game is downloaded, it is the customer's to keep and play for as long as they want.

This is Vodafone's most important launch unprecedented in our history, says Gavin Darby, CEO of Vodafone UK. Vodafone live! heralds a new era of mobile experiences and is a groundbreaking development in the way in which we use mobile phones. This is a unique approach, making it simple and hassle-free for customers to access a wealth of colourful information and entertainment. We are setting a new benchmark for the industry with the Vodafone live! approach, whilst providing the foundation for the services of the future for our customers.

Notes to Editors

Vodafone live! unique Menu

This is a revolutionary, yet simple way for customers to access an endless pool of information and fun. Customers can click on one of 8 icons on the Vodafone live! menu, developed by Vodafone, and find themselves in a world of pictures, games, information and ringtones – downloadable there and then.

Live! handsets

Vodafone live! will exploit the latest mobile phones with built-in cameras. Exclusive to Vodafone is the GX10 from Sharp which boasts a high-quality, 65,000 colour screen, built-in camera, picture messaging capability, arcade-style games and a hot button through to the Vodafone live! menu. Other phones in the initial Vodafone live! range include the Panasonic GD87 and the Nokia 7650. Vodafone customers with WAP-enabled phones, but not phones in the live! range, will also have access to live! content, although the service will not be as easy to use.

Pay as you talk

The Sharp GX10 and Vodafone live! will also be available on pay as you talk, making Vodafone the first to launch picture messaging for pre-pay customers in the UK.

Buying Vodafone live!

Customers do not have to sign up to Vodafone live! All phones in the Vodafone live! range will be ready to use the service straight out of the box. So pay monthly customers simply need a voice and GPRS price plan and can then pick and choose which services they use as they go, paying per event. The same applies for pay as you talk customers, charged at pre-pay rates.

Picture Messaging

Edgar Filing: VODAFONE GROUP PUBLIC LTD CO - Form 6-K

Picture messaging couldn't be simpler. All the Vodafone live! recommended handsets have built-in cameras so point, shoot and send. You can even attach a personalised text or voice message then e-mail or pix a friend for only 36p or just send an extra long text for 15p.

Games Arcade

Through the new Vodafone live! menu it couldn't be easier to download a new colour arcade-style game. Go to the downloads icon and click through to the games arcade. Once you've decided which one you want, the menu tells you its price and the size of the file before you actually buy it so you know how much will be added to your bill or deducted from your pay as you talk credit. Once downloaded the game is yours to keep and play as often as you like.

Ringtones

The big noise in mobile phone sound has arrived. With over 1,300 polyphonic ringtones available to download through Vodafone live! customers will be able to find a tune that not only suits their mood or personality, but it will sound like it should. They'll find hits from top artists in a wide range of music styles, also including Top 10 Chart updates and movie themes, at a cost of £2.50 each.

More fun + info

Click on this and it'll take you through to even more fun and information. Now you can experience fantastic full colour pictures to go along with your news, sports and entertainment stories. Instead of reading about that dress (or lack of it) at last night's premiere, see it and judge for yourself.

You'll find the richest selection of content available today from content providers including News International, Reuters, EMAP, BBC Magazines, Russell Grant, Time Out, 6 Foot Offshore surfing news, lastminute.com, and you can even buy books, CDs and DVDs direct from your phone.

Vodafone Mail

With Vodafone's enhanced voicemail service, you can be in control of your email and voicemail through your mobile phone wherever you are. By setting up a single mailbox address you will be sent a text when you're sent any kind of message. Then customers via the Vodafone live! menu or by dialling 242 can edit, compose, forward or delete messages. With Vodafone Mail you have the tools and the opportunity to transform the way you manage your messages.

Vodafone Messenger

With the launch of Vodafone live! we also see the launch of Vodafone Messenger, an instant messaging service. With all your friends or family simultaneously on line and mobile you can text-chat at the same time, wherever you are.

Service and Content Prices

When customers are downloading they will be charged for transferring the data and the cost of the games or image. For example, to download the live! homepage will cost from between 1.5p (GPRS select tariff) to 12.7p (pay as you talk).

Polyphonic ringtones, games arcade, wallpaper and screensavers are all charged using m-pay. New m-pay means there's no need for customers to register. They simply browse, listen or view, price check and then buy. While downloading, the cost will be charged direct to their bill or deducted from their pay as you talk credit.

STRATEGY INTO REALITY PRESENTATION

LAUNCH OF VODAFONE LIVE!

LAUNCH OF VODAFONE MOBILE OFFICE

Vodafone Group Plc (Vodafone) today announces in a presentation* to financial analysts and media how Vodafone is positioning the organisation to deliver growth in the next stage of its strategic development through the launch of its consumer offering, Vodafone live!, and its business offering, Vodafone Mobile Office.

Vodafone live!, Vodafone's consumer proposition, is now being launched in Germany, Ireland, Italy, Netherlands, Portugal, Spain, Sweden and the UK, with Australia, Greece and New Zealand to follow in the New Year. Vodafone live! Brings a new world of colour, sound and pictures to Vodafone's customers through an easy to use colour menu, accessed from integrated camera phones. Wherever and whenever they wish customers will be able to take and send picture messages, download and play the latest mobile games and polyphonic ringtones, send and receive voice, text and e-mails, explore instant chat with friends and get the information they want. Vodafone live! Will deliver an increasing range of mobile services to Vodafone customers.

Vodafone's business proposition is Vodafone Mobile Office. This will deliver a portfolio of services designed for today's global and mobile business environment. Vodafone Mobile Office's first product, Vodafone Remote Access, will be available from November. This will enable customers to remote access their corporate LAN wherever they are. It will provide an end-to-end solution between a remote laptop or PDA and a secure LAN in an easy to use way. The service will be marketed and sold through Vodafone's direct sales organisation.

Both customer propositions demonstrate how Vodafone is creating service differentiation by delivering easy to use services through its customer focused marketing. Vodafone believes it is in an excellent position to deliver this market approach through its scale and scope, bringing together its networks, relationships with manufacturers, its technology platforms and its global brand.

Vodafone's consumer and business propositions lay the foundations for Vodafone's next stage of growth. All data services will be accessed initially over 2.5G and, after launch, on Vodafone's 3G networks. 3G networks and devices will allow Vodafone to deliver more and faster services, through Vodafone live! And Vodafone Mobile Office.

Thomas Geitner, Chief Executive Global Products and Services, commented: As a result of these initiatives, I believe that we are better positioned than ever to fulfil our vision of making Vodafone the world's leading mobile brand - a brand offering complete service delivery to our customers.

Sir Christopher Gent, Chief Executive added: Vodafone is changing the mobile market. Customers are not interested in buying the underlying technology of mobile services. They want applications, services and content that are affordable and easy to use.

In Vodafone live! and Vodafone Mobile Office, we have created not only a range of value added services that will enrich our customers' lives, but also the foundations for the next stage in Vodafone's strategic development.

NOTES TO EDITORS:

Vodafone Strategy

In 1997, Vodafone established a strategy aimed at achieving global leadership in the field of mobile telecommunication services, and consequent sustained competitive advantage intended to achieve enhanced long term returns for its shareholders. That initial strategy was based upon a growth plan of three elements: accelerated customer growth; geographic expansion and new service development.

Eighteen months ago, Vodafone realigned its strategy, following a period of strong customer growth and to reflect both the development of the industry and the progress the business had made:

More/...

Creating revenue growth through increased marketing focus on Vodafone's established high quality customer base

No longer expanding into new geographic markets but using Vodafone's established scale and scope to extend the financial and commercial benefits of operational leadership

Extending Vodafone's service differentiation by investing in, and delivering, a Vodafone branded, easy to use, customer service proposition

Improved marketing to Vodafone's customer base is now a key business driver. Vodafone's entire organisational approach is focused on customers and the applications they want to use. To this end, Vodafone has conducted extensive research to determine what services customers require and how they want them delivered. As a result, Vodafone has created fully branded, easy to use, customer service propositions. Vodafone's approach means that customers can now access services through easy to use Vodafone branded menus.

To achieve this, Vodafone has worked much more closely with its suppliers to implement what customers want. It has built global technology platforms which seamlessly deliver services to its customers and it has created a global brand, which it believes will engender trust and customer loyalty and a significant service differentiation in the market.
