the world's leading companies within cancer diagnostics.

Novo Nordisk has been a shareholder since 1992 and currently owns around 27% of the capital in Dako A/S. Following a successful development of Dako's business and in preparation for encouraging future prospects, the current shareholders in response to an ongoing consolidation of the cancer diagnostics industry have concluded that a new ownership structure would be in the best long-term interest of Dako.

Jesper Brandgaard, chief financial officer, said: "As one of the main shareholders we are pleased that an attractive ownership solution has been found for Dako, which will facilitate the continued expansion of the company's business activities."

The sales agreement is subject to a number of conditions including the approval of the transaction by applicable competition authorities and the approval of the transaction by a shareholders' meeting of Dako A/S. As a consequence of this transaction, Novo Nordisk now expects to record an income in 2007 of around DKK 1.5 billion in relation to Dako's sale of Dako Denmark A/S, which will be recorded under 'Share of profit in associated companies' in the 'net financials' part of the income statement.

Updated guidance for the 'net financials' including impact from currency development will be provided in connection with the release of the financial statements for the first three months of 2007 on 2 May 2007.
