After the completion of a comprehensive Area-wide Environmental Impact Study for phosphate mining in central Florida and a thorough review of the related permit application, on November 15, 2016 the Army Corps of Engineers issued a final federal wetlands permit to Mosaic Fertilizer, LLC (“Mosaic Fertilizer”), a subsidiary of The Mosaic Company (“Mosaic”), approving mining operations to extract phosphate ore reserves at the South Pasture extension mine in Hardee County, Florida for over a decade. The capital expenditures expected to be required in order for Mosaic to access this new mine were included in the capital expenditure requirements for the next five years that were discussed on Mosaic’s November 1, 2016 earnings call.
