SEMI-ANNUAL REPORT

AUGUST 31, 2002

October 25, 2002

JAPAN SMALLER CAPITALIZATION FUND, INC.

To Our Shareholders:

We present the Semi-Annual Report of the Japan Smaller Capitalization Fund, Inc. (the "Fund") for the six months ended August 31, 2002. The Net Asset Value per share ("NAV") of the Fund increased by 21.8% during the six months. The closing market price of the Fund on August 31, 2002, on the New York Stock Exchange was $7.29 representing a premium of 2.1% to the NAV of $7.14. The net assets of the Fund amounted to $113,114,771 on August 31, 2002.

The TOPIX, consisting of all companies listed on the Tokyo Stock Exchange (the "TSE") First Section, increased by 4.8% and the Nikkei Average Index (a price-weighted index of 225 leading stocks on the TSE) increased by 2.5%, in United States ("U.S.") dollar terms, during the six months ended August 31, 2002. The Nikkei OTC Average Index (the "OTC Index"), a price-weighted index of the quotations of the OTC registered stocks, and the Index of the Japan Securities Dealers Association Quotation System (the "JASDAQ Index"), a capitalization-weighted index of all OTC stocks, increased by 16.0% and 11.4%, respectively, in U.S. dollar terms, during the same period. The Japanese yen (the "Yen") appreciated by 11.4% against the U.S. dollar during the six months.

The Fund outperformed the OTC Index and the JASDAQ Index by 5.9 percentage points and 10.4 percentage points, respectively, during the six months ended August 31, 2002. The overweight position and effective stock selection in the Consumption sector outweighed some negative results from the overweight position in the Electronics sector.

The NAV of the Fund decreased by 6.7%; for the quarter ended August 31, 2002. During the same period, the TOPIX, the Nikkei Average Index, the OTC Index and the JASDAQ Index declined by 12.1%, 14.5%, 5.0% and 7.5% respectively, in U.S. dollar terms. The Yen appreciated by 4.3% during the same period. The Fund underperformed the OTC Index by 1.7 percentage points and outperformed the JASDAQ Index by 0.8 percentage points. While the overweight position and stock selection in the Consumption sector worked positively, the overweight position in the Electronics sector and stock selection results in the Information/System sector had negative effects on the relative performance.

The Fund's equity exposure decreased from 99.3% at February 28, 2002 to 99.0% at August 31, 2002. The Fund was diversified into 91 issues, of which 63 issues were OTC stocks, 19 were other smaller capitalization stocks and 9 were TSE First Section stocks, comprising 64.7%, 23.6% and 10.7% respectively, of net assets on August 31, 2002.

Japanese Economy and Stock Market Outlook

The OTC Index achieved a modest gain of 2.8% in local currency terms for the six months ended August 31, 2002.

In mid-February 2002, the Japanese OTC stock market entered a strong recovery phase in tandem with an explosive rebound in the TOPIX, which was triggered by the tightening of short selling regulations in Japan and was later helped by an unexpectedly strong recovery in U.S. economic growth. External factors raised hopes of a turnaround in Japan's industrial production cycle and better prospects for Japanese exporters. Signs that worldwide semiconductor and personal computer sales were starting to bottom out also provided some support.

The Japanese OTC stock market maintained its upward momentum until early June, driven mainly by expectations of a cyclical turnaround in the economy, based on improvements in industrial production and lower inventory levels. Corporate financial results were released from mid-April through late May. Although the historical results were poor, projections for fiscal year 2002 indicated a strong rebound in earnings among certain sectors. The OTC Index recorded an eleven-month high in early June, reflecting these improvements in fundamentals.

However, positive momentum later gave way to deteriorating investor sentiment caused by the weakness of the U.S. stock market, owing to concerns about the sustainability of the U.S. economic recovery and the dollar's depreciation against the Yen to the 120 Yen to one U.S. dollar level. Although the domestic economic factors indicated a cyclical turnaround, investors began to focus on the unfavorable currency trend and the likely impact that a U.S. economic slowdown would have on the nascent export-driven recovery in Japan.

In July and August, the weakness in the U.S. stock markets, the result of growing investor skepticism following a series of accounting fraud allegations against major American companies, further aggravated sentiment in the Japanese stock market. Cautious business projections issued by some of the leading technology companies, reflecting the recent slow down in the global technology markets also undermined investor sentiment. In fact, leading U.S. and Asian semiconductor manufacturers have announced reductions in capital expenditures, which has pulled the prices of Japanese semiconductor production equipment stocks down further.

Although Prime Minister Koizumi's reform plans have been proceeding gradually, with modest progress in postal privatization and road corporation reforms, the market remained indifferent given their lack of any immediate impact on the economy. The Japanese OTC stock market entered another downturn in June that has continued through the end of August and has erased most of the gains made earlier in the year.

Outlook and Future Strategy

Edgar Filing: JAPAN SMALLER CAPITALIZATION FUND INC - Form N-30D

Latest Gross Domestic Product ("GDP") figures, showing a 1.9% annualized quarter-on-quarter growth rate, confirmed that a cyclical recovery was underway in the second quarter, led mostly by net exports. As exports made the dominant contribution to GDP, the lackluster U.S. economic outlook has cast a shadow over the domestic economy as well. Exacerbating this deteriorating outlook for the economy, industrial production for July recorded a second consecutive decline on a month-on-month basis, while inventory levels increased slightly. Hence, recent evidence indicates that the Japanese economy seems to be stalling. However, the Fund never expected the path to recovery to be straightforward, since the completion of inventory adjustment has been the leading force. Although we have not discarded our moderate recovery expectations, the macro-economic environment is likely to weigh on the stock market in the absence of any support from the Japanese government.

The basic fundamentals surrounding the Japanese OTC stock market have not changed drastically, but the psychological framework has deteriorated substantially. Accounting scandals in the U.S. have given way to concerns about earnings expectations, and corporate scandals involving a number of leading Japanese industry sectors have undermined confidence in corporate management in general. To complicate matters further, changes in the tax schedule in Japan for capital gains for individual investors are so complex that the authorities are failing to attract more retail investors to the stock market. Furthermore, the question of whether the U.S. will initiate a war against Iraq continues to weigh heavily on the world financial markets.

Consequently, we do not expect any immediately supportive developments for the stock market, although valuation levels have become even more attractive, as the prospective price earnings ratio of the Japanese OTC stock market has shrunk to around 17 times and the price book ratio has fallen to less than 1.3 times. We still believe the Japanese stock market offers some upside potential from the current depressed level once confidence in the earnings recovery is restored. Therefore, taking too pessimistic a view on the stock market from the current level is just as risky as being too optimistic. For the stock market to rise beyond a mere temporary rebound from the current depressed level, the economy needs to escape the current deflationary environment.

The continuing severe correction in the stock market might offer further opportunities for re-balancing the Funds at the individual stock level. The market correction is now creating opportunities for bottom fishing, so we will continue in our efforts to identify stocks that are over-sold compared with their fundamentals.

Effective October 1, 2002, the Nikkei OTC Index has been re-named the Nikkei JASDAQ Stock Price Average. Future shareholders reports will use that name. This change has no impact on the management of the Fund.

We appreciate your continuing support of your Fund.

Sincerely,

Kazuhiko Hama
President

JAPAN SMALLER CAPITALIZATION FUND, INC.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (Unaudited)

1. Significant Accounting Policies

Japan Smaller Capitalization Fund, Inc. (the "Fund") is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 as a non-diversified, closed-end management investment company. The Fund was incorporated in Maryland on January 25, 1990 and investment operations commenced on March 21, 1990. The Fund issued to its shareholders of record as of the close of business on October 25, 1999 nontransferable Rights to subscribe for up to an aggregate of 3,804,940 shares of Common Stock of the Fund at a rate of one share of Common Stock for three Rights held ("Primary Subscription"). The Fund had the ability to increase the number of shares subscribed for in this offering by up to 25% of the Primary Subscription, or an additional 951,235 shares, to honor record date shareholder requests to purchase more shares. During November 1999, the Fund issued a total of 4,458,565 shares of Common Stock on exercise of such Rights at the subscription price of $11.99 per share, compared to a net asset value per share of $16.20 and a market value per share of $12.6875. Additionally, a sales load of 3.75% was charged to each share issued. Right offering costs of approximately $546,000 and the sales load were charged directly against the proceeds of the Rights Offering. The following is a summary of significant accounting policies followed by the Fund.

(a) Valuation of Securities-Investments traded in the over-the-counter market are valued at the last reported sales price as of the the close of business on the day the securities are being valued or, if none is available, at the mean of the bid and offer price at the close of business on such day or, if none is available, the last reported sales price. Portfolio securities which are traded on stock exchanges are valued at the last sales price on the principal market on which securities are traded or lacking any sales, at the last available bid price. Short-term debt securities which mature in 60 days or less are valued at amortized cost if their original maturity at the date of purchase was 60 days or less, or by amortizing their value on the 61st day prior to maturity if their term to maturity at the date of purchase exceeded 60 days. Securities and other assets for which market quotations are not readily available are valued at fair value as determined in good faith by or under the direction of the Board of Directors of the Fund.

(b) Foreign Currency Transactions - Transactions denominated in Japanese yen are recorded in the Fund's records at the current prevailing rate at the time of the transaction. Asset and liability accounts that are denominated in Yen are adjusted to reflect the current exchange rate at the end of the period. Transaction gains or losses resulting from changes in the exchange rate during the reporting period or upon settlement of foreign currency transactions are included in operations for the current period.

The net assets of the Fund are presented at the exchange rate and market values at the end of the period. The Fund isolates that portion of the change in unrealized appreciation (depreciation) included in the statement of operations arising as a result of changes in Yen rates at August 31, 2002 on investments and other assets and liabilities. Net realized foreign exchange gains or losses includes gains or losses arising from sales of portfolio securities, sales and maturities of short-term securities, currency gains or losses realized between the trade and settlement dates on securities transactions, the difference between the amounts of dividends, interest, and foreign withholding taxes recorded on the Fund's books, and the U.S. dollar equivalent of the amounts actually received or paid.

(c) Security Transactions, Investment Income and Distributions to Shareholders--Security transactions are accounted for on the trade date. Dividend income and distributions are recorded on the ex-dividend date and interest income is recorded on the accrual basis. Realized gains and losses on the sale of investments are calculated on the identified cost basis.

Distributions from net investment income and net realized gains are determined in accordance with Federal income tax regulations, which may differ from generally accepted accounting principles. To the extent these "book/tax" differences are permanent in nature (i.e., that they result from other than timing of recognition-"temporary"), such accounts are reclassified within the capital accounts based on their Federal tax-basis treatment; temporary differences do not require reclassification. Dividends and distributions which exceed net realized gains for financial reporting purposes, but not for tax purposes, are reported as distributions in excess of net realized gains.

(d) Income Taxes - A provision for United States income taxes has not been made since it is the intention of the Fund to qualify as a regulated investment company under the Internal Revenue Code and to distribute within the allowable time limit all taxable income to its shareholders.

Under Japanese tax laws, a withholding tax is imposed on dividends at a rate of 15% and on interest at a rate of 10% and such withholding taxes are reflected as a reduction of the related revenue. There is no withholding tax on realized gains.

(e) Capital Account Reclassification - For the year ended February 28, 2002, the Fund's accumulated net realized loss was decreased by $205,936 and paid in capital was decreased by $1,111,592, with an offsetting decrease in accumulated net investment gross of $905,656. This adjustment was primarily the result of the reclassification of foreign currency gains and reclassification of the net operating loss.

(f) Use of Estimates in Financial Statement Preparation - The preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Actual results could differ from these estimates.

(g) Concentration of Risk - A significant portion of the Fund's net assets consists of Japanese securities which involve certain considerations and risks not typically associated with investments in the United States. In addition to the smaller size, and greater volatility, there is often substantially less publicly available information about Japanese issuers than there is about U.S. issuers. Future economic and political developments in Japan could adversely affect the value of securities in which the Fund is invested. Further, the Fund may be exposed to currency devaluation and other exchange rate fluctuations.
