FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

GE TO ACQUIRE HELLER FINANCIAL
IN $5.3 BILLION CASH TRANSACTION

- Compelling Strategic Fit of Products, Services and Practices -
- Enhances GE Capital's Positioning in Key Business Segments and Provides New Platforms for Growth -

Edgar Filing: HELLER FINANCIAL INC - Form SC TO-C

Stamford, CT - July 30, 2001 - General Electric Capital Corporation ("GE Capital"), a diversified financial services company and subsidiary of the General Electric Company

(NYSE: GE), announced today that it has entered into a definitive merger agreement to acquire Heller Financial, Inc. ("Heller") (NYSE: HF) for $5.3 billion in cash, or $53.75 per share. The merger agreement provides for a cash tender offer by GE Capital for all of Heller's outstanding common stock, which will commence within the next five business days. GE Capital has also entered into an agreement with The Fuji Bank, Limited ("Fuji Bank"), which owns 100% of the Class B common shares of Heller, through which Fuji Bank has agreed to tender all of its shares to GE Capital. The Class B shares represent 52% of the fully diluted ownership of Heller. Consummation of the tender offer and the merger is subject to customary conditions, including regulatory approvals.

The announcement was made today by Denis J. Nayden, Chairman and CEO of GE Capital, and Richard Almeida, Chairman and CEO of Heller Financial. The Boards of Directors of both companies have approved the agreement.

"GE is very excited about this synergistic combination and the opportunities that it offers for growth and increased shareholder value," said Mr. Nayden. "Heller is a successful, world-class company with a strong commitment to the middle market whose core businesses fit perfectly with our own. Through this transaction, we gain not only the benefits of complementary services and geographic reach, but also the ability to provide new products."

Heller's primary businesses in commercial finance, equipment leasing and real estate finance will enhance GE Capital's core businesses in these areas. In addition, Heller provides GE Capital with:

- o Recognized expertise and relationships across the middle market finance sector that will allow GE Capital to bolster its capabilities and offerings.
- o New international platforms in factoring, particularly in Europe.
- o Innovative offerings in healthcare finance, with a primary focus on small and middle-market companies operating in specialized areas of the healthcare industry, including long-term care, assisted living, hospitals, physician practice management, mental health and durable medical equipment.

In turn, GE Capital's strong balance sheet will enhance asset growth and offer Heller's customers the most cost-effective solutions for their growth needs.

Mr. Almeida said, "Over the past decade, Heller has built a brand name and a strong presence in middle market finance in both the U.S. and key international markets. Our focus on understanding the needs of our customers, and providing the innovative financial solutions they require, has produced a significant origination capability and an attractive growth profile. These factors, and our disciplined approach to financial and credit risk management, has created substantial value for our shareholders, employees and customers. The acquisition of Heller by one of the world's premier financial services companies further validates what the people of Heller have created. Going forward, the synergies generated from the combination of our companies are truly exciting."

GE Capital and Heller share a number of values and practices. They both have a customer-centered vision, a strong credit risk management philosophy, a skilled and experienced workforce, superior asset origination capabilities and a commitment to quality.

"Heller and GE Capital are really a perfect fit. In addition to our shared core businesses, we have many of the same cultural attributes and management practices," Mr. Nayden said. "In bringing our companies together, these similarities will allow us to integrate quickly and to accelerate best practice sharing, including GE's Six Sigma quality processes and digitization efforts, to quickly drive productivity and cost improvements."

"GE Capital has a proven track record of successfully closing and integrating acquisitions, having completed more than 400 of them over the past 10 years," said Dennis D. Dammerman, Vice Chairman of General Electric and Chairman of GE Capital Services. "The acquisition of Heller is in line with GE's long-term strategy to grow GE Capital through a combination of acquisitions, core growth and productivity, delivering consistent earnings."

"We believe the acquisition of Heller will help GE Capital solidify its high double-digit growth targets for 2002," said Mr. Nayden. "Heller's specialized service offerings, additional geographic reach, and significant intellectual capital help position GE Capital for a strong future."

Fuji Bank has strongly supported Heller since its acquisition in 1984. Fuji believes this transaction is an attractive one that serves the best interests of all Heller shareholders.

GE Capital's financial advisor on this transaction was Morgan Stanley and its legal advisor was Weil, Gotshal & Manges LLP. Heller's co-financial advisors were Credit Suisse First Boston and Lehman Brothers and
