The following letter was sent to retirees of The Gillette Company:

February 22, 2005

Dear Gillette Retiree:

Many questions have been asked about Gillette's executive compensation programs in light of the announcement of the anticipated merger of Gillette with Procter & Gamble. I want to provide you with information about the expected impact of the merger on your stock options.

The 1971 Gillette Stock Option Plan and 2004 Long Term Incentive Plan (the Gillette plans) contain Change of Control provisions that will apply to the merger.

Over the coming months, we will be working to amend the Gillette plans to establish specific rules and procedures for stock option exercises at the merger, as well as for conversion to P&G stock options. Further information will be provided to you as this work is completed.

Sincerely,

Edward E. Guillet
Senior Vice President
Human Resources

Questions and Answers

1. What happens to my stock options due to the merger with P&G?

Before the merger takes place. You may exercise your stock options at any time prior to the close of the merger, under the current terms and conditions of the Gillette plans, including the current expiration dates.

As of the close of the merger. As of the close of the merger, you will have three choices:

- a. Convert to P&G options. You can convert all or some of your Gillette stock options to P&G stock options, with appropriate adjustments for exercise price and number of shares. Gillette stock options will be converted into options to purchase P&G stock based on the same ratio (0.975 share of P&G stock for each share of Gillette stock) that will apply to all other Gillette shareholders.

For example, an option for 1,000 Gillette shares with an exercise price of $43.10 will be converted into an option for 975 P&G shares at an adjusted exercise price of $44.21 ( $$43.10 / 0.975$ ) as illustrated in the following table, so that the total exercise price remains the same.

	G	Conversion	PG
Option Shares	1,000	Multiply by	0.975
Per share exercise Price	$43.10	Divide by	0.975
	<hr/>		<hr/>
Total Exercise Price	$43,100	>>>	$43,100

The time periods for stock option exercise will remain unchanged.

- b. Exercise options for cash. You can also choose to exercise some or all of your options as of the close of the merger and receive cash based on the value of the P&G shares on the day the merger closes.
- c. Exercise options for shares. You can also choose to exercise some or all of your options as of the close of the merger and receive P&G shares based on the same ratio (0.975 shares of P&G stock for each share of Gillette stock) that will apply to all other Gillette shareholders.
