The following is a Question and Answer Summary that was mailed to shareholders of Banknorth Group, Inc. on or about January 24, 2005

VOTE

FOR

Banknorth Group, Inc.
and
The Toronto-Dominion Bank Merger

To our Shareholders:

We recently mailed to you proxy materials for the Special Meeting of Shareholders of Banknorth Group, Inc. scheduled to be held at 10:00 a.m., local time, on February 18, 2005 at the Portland Marriott Hotel, 200 Sable Oak Drive, South Portland, Maine 04106. The matters to be considered and voted upon at the special meeting are listed on the enclosed voting form and relate to a merger agreement we entered into with The Toronto-Dominion Bank.

The Banknorth board of directors recommends that you vote FOR all of the proposals. The approval of the proposal to approve the merger agreement and the proposals to approve the reincorporation of Banknorth from Maine to Delaware and the governance and other provisions in the post-transaction certificate of incorporation of new Banknorth is a condition to the completion of the transaction. Therefore, if you wish to approve the transaction, you must approve each of these proposals.

Your vote is very important. Whether or not you plan to attend the special meeting, please submit your proxy promptly by telephone or via the Internet in accordance with the instructions on the accompanying proxy form, or by completing, dating and returning your proxy form in the enclosed envelope. A failure to vote by telephone, via the Internet, by mail or in person at the special meeting will have the same effect as a vote against approval of the merger agreement.

Your shares can not be voted unless you give your specific instructions. Please vote today.

To receive a copy of the proxy materials or if you have questions regarding the proposed merger, please feel free to contact Morrow & Co., Inc., toll-free at 1-800-607-0088 or 1-800-654-2468.

Sincerely,

/s/ William J. Ryan

The Toronto-Dominion Bank Merger
YOUR QUESTIONS ANSWERED

The following Q&A is designed to answer commonly asked questions regarding the pending transaction between Banknorth Group, Inc. and The Toronto- Dominion Bank (TD).

This Q&A summary refers to, and is qualified entirely by, the detailed prospectus/proxy statement we have sent you that contains a description of the proposed merger between Banknorth and TD and the full text of the merger agreement and the stockholders agreement described in, and attached as appendices to, that prospectus/proxy statement. You should read this Q&A summary together with the prospectus/proxy statement, which is dated January 11, 2005.

Q. As a Banknorth shareholder, what will I receive when the transaction closes?

A. For each share of Banknorth stock you own, you will receive a package of consideration consisting of:

$12.24 in cash; and
0.2351 of a share of TD stock; and
0.49 of a share of new Banknorth common stock.

For example, if you own 100 shares of Banknorth common stock, you will receive:

$1,224 in cash; and
23 shares of TD stock*; and
49 shares of new Banknorth common stock.

Based on the closing price of TD s common shares on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) on January 7, 2005, the package of consideration described above represents an effective purchase price of $42.23 per Banknorth share for the 51% of the outstanding Banknorth shares that TD will acquire in the transaction.

*You will receive additional cash for any fractional shares you would have otherwise received.

Q. Why was the transaction structured the way that it was, that is, to sell only 51% of Banknorth?

A. First, the sale of 51% of Banknorth to TD will allow TD to preserve additional capital that could facilitate the funding of future acquisitions by Banknorth in New England and potentially beyond. Second, by maintaining Banknorth as a public company, the transaction will give Banknorth the potential to continue to use Banknorth stock for future acquisitions. Third, the transaction gives existing shareholders the opportunity to realize a premium for 51% of their holdings while allowing them to continue to participate in any future growth of Banknorth.

Q. What will the value of the new Banknorth shares be once the transaction closes?

A. We cannot speculate on what the value of the new Banknorth shares will trade for once the transaction closes. We do believe that the current price of Banknorth shares reflects, in part, the premium TD is paying for 51% of the company, while the market price of the new Banknorth shares following the closing of the transaction will not reflect that implied premium. You should consult your financial advisor for specific financial advice.

Q. Is the price being paid a fair one?

A. Yes, the Banknorth Board of Directors believes it is. In approving the transaction, the Board considered, among other factors, opinions from two nationally-recognized investment banking firms, Keefe, Bruyette and Woods and Lehman Brothers, that the consideration is fair to the Banknorth shareholders from a financial point of view.

Q. Will future TD stock dividends be paid in Canadian dollars?

A. Dividends on TD shares traded on the NYSE are quoted in Canadian dollars but will be paid to U.S. shareholders of TD common shares in U.S. dollars based on the foreign exchange rate five business days after the record date.

Q. Will Banknorth continue its current dividend policy?

A. Banknorth currently intends to maintain its current dividend policy, but any future dividends will be declared in the discretion of its board of directors.

Q. What are the material U.S. federal income tax consequences of the transaction?

A. Both the cash and TD shares you receive as part of the merger consideration will be taxable and will generally trigger capital gains tax treatment. You will not recognize any gain or loss in connection with the transaction on the shares of new Banknorth common stock you receive.

Please note that after the merger is completed, you will have an opportunity to specify, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, the shares to be converted into the portion of the merger consideration consisting of TD shares and cash, on the one hand, and into the portion of the consideration consisting of shares of new Banknorth common stock, on the other. For shareholders subject to U.S. taxation whose shares were acquired at different times and have different tax bases, this should generally allow, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, a matching of higher basis shares to the taxable portion of the consideration (cash and TD shares) and of lower basis shares to the tax-free portion of the consideration (shares of new Banknorth).

You should consult your tax advisor for specific tax advice. For a further discussion, see The Transaction Material U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences beginning on page 74 of the prospectus/proxy statement. Please see The Transaction Material Canadian Federal Income Tax Consequences beginning on page 79 of the prospectus/proxy statement for a summary of material Canadian federal income tax consequences of the transaction.

Q. Is TD obligated to purchase the remaining 49% of outstanding Banknorth shares?

A. No. Under the terms of the stockholders agreement TD may purchase up to an additional 15 2/3% of outstanding Banknorth common stock in the open market or by other means, including the purchase of shares directly from us under certain circumstances. TD may also make an offer to purchase the remaining shares pursuant to specified procedures and approvals, but is not required to do so.

Q. How are the rights of the 49% minority shareholders protected, particularly if and when TD chooses to buy the remaining outstanding shares of Banknorth?

A. In the first two years following the closing of the transaction, TD cannot initiate what is known as a going private transaction, or offer to acquire the publicly-held shares of Banknorth, unless invited to do so by the designated independent directors of Banknorth. These are four Banknorth directors not appointed by or affiliated with TD.

In the first five years after the closing, any going private transaction would need the approval of both a majority of the designated independent directors and a majority of the public shareholders.

After the fifth anniversary of the closing, any going private transaction would need the approval of either a majority of the designated independent directors or a majority of the public shareholders.

Q. Is there a market for TD common shares?

A. Yes. TD common shares are traded on the NYSE in U.S. dollars. TD common shares also are traded on the Toronto Stock Exchange in Canadian dollars.

Q. How can I find out the current market value of TD common shares?

A. TD common shares are traded on the NYSE under the symbol: TD . To find out the current trading price of TD common shares, you can look in the NYSE listing of your local newspaper, ask your broker or investment advisor or go online to any number of websites and look up the current trading price of TD common shares.

Q. When the transaction closes, what do I do with my Banknorth stock certificates?

A. Once the transaction closes, you will receive information on how to exchange your Banknorth shares.

Q. When will the transaction close?

A. We currently anticipate closing on or about February 28, 2005, subject to the receipt of Banknorth shareholder and required regulatory approvals, among other customary conditions. On January 18, 2005 the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System approved the transaction, which was one of the regulatory approvals required as a condition to closing.

Q. What happens if the transaction is not approved by shareholders?

A. Although the Board recommends that shareholders approve the transaction, if the transaction is not approved, the merger cannot be completed. In that event, Banknorth will continue to exist as an independent publicly-traded company.

Q. How do I vote my shares or who do I call if I have additional questions?

A. You may vote by telephone, internet or mail or by attending the special shareholders meeting and voting in person. An additional proxy form with instructions is enclosed. If you have additional questions, please contact Morrow & Co., Inc.
