The presentation is available on our web site, www.oceaneering.com, by visiting our Investor Relations page and looking under the heading Company Presentations/Interviews , and selecting June 2006 Business Outlook .

Please note that certain information contained in the presentation, as well as certain written and oral statements made or incorporated by reference from time to time by us or our representatives in our reports and filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, news releases, conferences, teleconferences, web postings or otherwise, are forward-looking statements within the meaning of Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933, Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 and are subject to the Safe Harbor provisions of those statutes. Forward-looking statements are generally accompanied by words such as estimate, project, predict, believe, expect, anticipate, plan, forecast, budget, goal or other words that indicate uncertainty of future events or outcomes. Among other items, the forward-looking statements include statements about:

upside potential for our share price;

our earnings outlook for 2006;

2006 earnings estimates which assume additional Subsea Products profits, further improvement in our Remotely Operated Vehicle business and pricing and an escalation in Subsea Projects results;

anticipated growth in deepwater oil and gas production;

future floating rig new builds;

the expansion of our ROV fleet;

higher ROV pricing and utilization for 2006;

subsea completions expected to triple in this decade;

our projected 2006 EBITDA (as defined and reconciled to GAAP measures in the Supplemental Financial Information to the presentation).

These forward-looking statements are based on our current information and expectations that involve a number of risks, uncertainties, and assumptions. Among the factors that could cause the actual results to differ materially from those indicated in the forward-looking statements are:

worldwide demand for oil and gas;

general economic and business conditions and industry trends;

the ability of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) to set and maintain production levels and pricing;

the level of production by non-OPEC countries;

domestic and foreign tax policy;

laws and governmental regulations that restrict exploration and development of oil and gas in various offshore jurisdictions;

rapid technological changes;

the political environment of oil-producing regions;

the price and availability of alternative fuels;

competitive factors;

overall economic conditions; and our ability to obtain new projects and the timing of new projects we do obtain.

Should one or more of these risks or uncertainties materialize, or should the assumptions underlying the forward-looking statements prove incorrect, actual outcomes could vary materially from those indicated. For additional information regarding these and other factors that could cause our actual results to differ materially from those expressed in our forward-looking statements, see our filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, including our Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended March 31, 2006 and our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2005.
