Item 2.03 Creation of a Direct Financial Obligation or an Obligation under an Off-Balance Sheet Arrangement of a Registrant.

On July 17, 2012, we entered into a loan transaction in the amount of $560,000 with an accredited investor as that term is defined in Rule 501 of Regulation D of the Securities and Exchange Commission (the SEC). The transaction involved the issuance of a Promissory Note, which is payable with interest of 15% per annum, in cash on or before September 30, 2012. PCS has agreed to issue 100,000 warrants with a 36 month term at $0.15 per share exercise price. The Promissory Note is secured by a Purchase Order in the amount of $741,780 dated July 16, 2012. The loan proceeds will be utilized to purchase inventory to fulfill the Purchase Order, bring certain vendors and payable accounts current, and finance the operations and logistics required to fulfill and support the order.

The Purchase Order requires delivery of BrickLab and PCS Robotics materials to the customer by mid-August, 2012 to ensure that the customer will have met the needs required for their funding which is needed to make payment; we are staging the delivery orders to ensure the materials can be used even without full delivery.

There are risks associated with the delivery requirements, even though we believe that the general risk of rejection of the deliveries if delayed is small. These risks include, among general risks associated with all forms of transportation, the following:

There is risk in the supply chain for inventory and in the staging, packing, and shipment of the lab materials which will be complex.

Despite all of these efforts, the funds available to the customer for our products could be withdrawn if deliveries are late, and there can be no assurance that we would be paid if the funds were withdrawn; if this happened, we may be required to inventory the materials prepared for delivery without a customer readily available for purchase, while still having the liability under the Promissory Note referenced herein.

No assurance can be given that any one of these or other potential risks will not result in our inability to satisfy the requirements of the Purchase Order though we will remain liable on the Promissory Note.
