Ryanair, which began services at London Luton in 1986, already operates 14 daily international flights from Luton to Dublin and Milan, and this year will carry 1.6M passengers to/from Luton, saving consumers over GBP60M on high fares charged by Easyjet. This massive increase in routes, destinations and passenger numbers is also good news for the local economy too, because it will create and sustain over 1,000 new jobs in the Luton area

Announcing this expansion of its Luton base today, Ryanair's CEO Michael O'Leary said:

"Consumers using London Luton airport now have a real low fares airline offering fares that are half the price of Easyjet, serving 11 destinations throughout Europe and delivering unbeatable punctuality, and that's Ryanair.

Our message to Easyjet is simple:

+ -Easyjet can't match Ryanair's low fares

+ -Easyjet can't match Ryanair's punctuality

These new routes, with fares from an incredible GBP1 (excl. taxes) are available for booking right now, at www.ryanair.com, Europe's biggest travel website".
