99	Notice to London Stock Exchange dated 14 October, 2011 Unilever to Acquire 82% of Concern Kalina

Exhibit 99

UNILEVER TO ACQUIRE 82% OF LEADING RUSSIAN BEAUTY COMPANY CONCERN KALINA

Successful brands enhance presence in attractive emerging market, strengthen Personal Care portfolio and create leading position in skin care in Russia.

Unilever, one of the world's leading consumer goods companies and Concern Kalina, the leading Russian beauty company, today announced that Unilever has agreed to acquire 82% of Concern Kalina. The transaction, which is pending required regulatory approvals, values the equity of the total business at RUB 21.5 billion (€ 500 million).

Concern Kalina is Russia's largest local personal care player with leading positions in skin and hair care and an expected 2011 turnover of around RUB 13 billion (€ 303 million). Concern Kalina is headquartered in Ekaterinburg, where its manufacturing facility is situated. The company has a strong, extensive distribution network and sells its products primarily in Russia, Ukraine and Kazakhstan. It employs around 1,900 people.

Paul Polman, CEO of Unilever said: "We are delighted to be acquiring Concern Kalina. This will transform Unilever's personal care business in Russia, giving us leading positions in skin care and hair care, as well as establishing a presence in oral care. It will also strengthen and re-balance Unilever's portfolio and competitive position in Russia, an emerging market with considerable potential and one of our priority countries."

The transaction fulfils a number of key criteria for Unilever. It:

- enhances Unilever's presence in an attractive, high-growth market with a differentiated portfolio which has grown at above market rates in competitive categories;
- adds to Unilever's portfolio successful, authentic Russian brands in skin care, hair care and oral care like Pure Line, Black Pearl, Silky Hands, 100 Recipes of Beauty and Forest Balm, complementing Unilever's own brands such as Dove, Sunsilk, Timotei and Clear;
- provides Unilever with the opportunity to use its technology to take these brands to a new level.

Polman continued, "Personal Care is a strategic category for Unilever and growing rapidly. Ten years ago it represented 20% of Group turnover; strong organic growth has driven it to now reach over 30%, with strong positions in many of the emerging markets.

"Organic growth remains the cornerstone of our ambition to double the size of Unilever whilst reducing our overall environmental impact. Acquisitions such as Concern Kalina supplement organic growth and add powerful new brands to our portfolio."

Timur Goryaev, Chairman of Concern Kalina said: "The agreement reached with Unilever will enable the brands we have built into some of Russia's best loved and most recognised since we started in 1996 to be taken to new heights."

Alexander Petrov, CEO of Concern Kalina, added "The coming together of our company with one of the most successful and best-known global companies represents a tremendous vote of confidence in the strength of our brands, the people who have built them and the potential of the Russian market. The combination with Unilever will also provide our employees with opportunities in one of the best companies in the world."

The transaction implies an enterprise value for 100% of Concern Kalina of approximately RUB 25.9 billion (€604 million). This represents a sales multiple of 2.0 and a pre-synergy proforma EBITDA multiple of 11.7. The price per share is RUB 4.098, calculated on the basis of 5.2 million outstanding shares in circulation. The price per share is subject to a number of completion adjustments and the final share price on closing could be different.

Subject to obtaining the required regulatory approvals, the acquisition is expected to complete by the end of 2011. On completion Unilever intends to launch a Mandatory Tender Offer to acquire the remaining shares that are not part of the initial agreement, at such time and on terms mandated by Russian law.

--- ends ---

NOTES

- The amount paid to acquire the 82% stake is approximately RUB 16.7 billion (€390m).
- The figure quoted of 5.2 million outstanding shares does not include 1.2 million shares in Concern Kalina that are currently held by its own subsidiary companies.
- Under the terms of the agreement, the 82% shareholding Unilever will acquire in Concern Kalina includes these additional 1.2 million shares.
