SunGard To Be Acquired

About the Transaction

Please see our press release >>

SunGard has signed a definitive agreement to be acquired by a group of private equity investment firms. The transaction is subject to stockholder approval, customary regulatory approval and other customary conditions.

The transaction is the largest buyout of any kind since KKR bought RJR Nabisco for approximately $30 billion in 1989. And it is the largest private equity buyout ever in the technology arena, exceeding by five-fold previous benchmarks set by the $2.1 billion acquisition of UGS PLM in 2004 and the $2.0 billion acquisition of Seagate in 2000.

The acquiring consortium was organized by Silver Lake Partners and includes Bain Capital, The Blackstone Group, Goldman Sachs Capital Partners, Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co. L.P., Providence Equity Partners and Texas Pacific Group.

We expect the transaction to be completed during the third quarter.

At SunGard it is business as usual. We are focused on serving our customers' current and future needs and on providing the high level of service to which we have always been committed.

The success of the transaction will depend on growing the business rather than eliminating jobs or reducing service levels. The current senior management team will continue to lead the company and will also become investors in the company.

In light of this transaction, SunGard's board of directors has determined not to implement the previously announced plan to spin off SunGard's Availability Services business.

You can identify forward-looking statements because they contain words such as believes, expects, may, will, would, should, seeks, approximately, intends, plans, estimates, or anticipates or similar expressions of our strategy, plans or intentions. All statements we make relating to estimated and projected earnings, margins, costs, expenditures, cash flows, growth rates and financial results are forward-looking statements. In addition, we, through our senior management, from time to time make forward-looking public statements concerning our expected future operations and performance and other developments. All of these forward-looking statements are subject to risks and uncertainties that may change at any time, and, therefore, our actual results may differ materially from those we expected. Some of the factors that we believe could affect our results include: general economic and market conditions, including the lingering effects of the economic slowdown on information technology spending levels, trading volumes and services revenue; the overall condition of the financial services industry, including the effect of any further consolidation among financial services firms; the integration of acquired businesses, the performance of acquired businesses, and the prospects for future acquisitions; the effect of war, terrorism or catastrophic events; the effect of disruptions to our ASP Systems; the timing and magnitude of software sales; the timing and scope of technological advances; customers taking their information availability solutions in-house; the trend in information availability toward solutions utilizing more dedicated resources; the market and credit risks associated with clearing broker operations; the ability to retain and attract customers and key personnel; risks relating to the foreign countries where we transact business; and the ability to obtain patent protection and avoid patent-related liabilities in the context of a rapidly developing legal framework for software and business-method patents. We may not be able to complete the proposed transaction on the terms summarized above or other acceptable terms, or at all, due to a number of factors, including the failure to obtain approval of our stockholders, regulatory approvals or to satisfy other customary closing conditions. The factors described in this paragraph and other factors that may affect our business or future financial results are discussed in our filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, including our Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2004, a copy of which may be obtained from us without charge. We assume no obligation to update any written or oral forward-looking statement made by us or on our behalf as a result of new information, future events or other factors.
