Section 1 Registrant's Business and Operations

Item 1.01. Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement.

On August 30, 2010, Exelon Generation Company, LLC ("Generation"), a wholly-owned subsidiary of Exelon Corporation, and Deere & Company ("Deere") entered into a Purchase Agreement (the "Purchase Agreement"), under which Generation agreed to purchase all of the membership interests of John Deere Renewables, LLC ("JDR"), an owner and operator of 735 megawatts of operating wind electric generating facilities. The acquisition also includes all projects under development by JDR, including three projects totaling 230 megawatts of wind generation in advanced development in Michigan.

The purchase price is $860 million with up to an additional $40 million payable upon commencement of construction of the three projects in Michigan. The Purchase Agreement requires that JDR have at least $8 million of working capital at closing, and the parties will true-up to that amount subsequent to the closing. Generation also will reimburse Deere for certain agreed-upon capital expenditures made prior to closing with respect to projects under development. In addition, Deere will retain certain rights to proceeds relating to pre-closing periods that may be paid upon the resolution of ongoing litigation involving the price at which JDR's Texas projects sell energy.

Deere has made customary representations and warranties in the Purchase Agreement concerning JDR and its business, including related to its project companies and their operations and capital structure, financial statements, material contracts, taxes, compliance with laws, environmental matters and employee benefits. In addition, Deere has agreed to customary covenants governing the operation of JDR's business prior to closing. Generation has agreed to replace Deere on approximately $11 million of guarantees which support obligations of JDR.

Both parties agreed to customary indemnification obligations with respect to breaches of representations, warranties and covenants. Consummation of the transaction is subject to various customary closing conditions, including receipt of regulatory approvals that do not impose any burdensome condition on Generation or its affiliates. Pre-merger notification under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act is necessary, and approvals from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and Texas Public Utilities Commission also are required. No shareholder approval of the transaction is required by either Exelon Corporation or Deere. The Purchase Agreement also contains certain customary termination rights for both Generation and Deere. No termination fee is payable by either party.

Attached as Exhibits 99.1 and 99.2 to this Current Report on Form 8-K are Exelon's press release announcing the purchase and a slide presentation summarizing the details of the transaction.
