Peter R. Bible informed the Corporation on May 16, 2006 that he was resigning from his position as Chief Accounting Officer and Assistant Controller effective June 1, 2006.

On May 17, 2006, the Corporation issued the following press release

GM ANNOUNCES RESTRUCTURING OF FINANCE ACTIVITIES

DETROIT -- General Motors today announced that it plans to restructure its Corporate Controller's Office in light of the planned retirement of its current controller, Paul W. Schmidt.

Schmidt, 61, is electing to retire from GM later this year, capping a 37-year career at GM. Following Schmidt's retirement, GM will combine the positions of controller and chief accounting officer. The company has begun an external search for a candidate using executive recruiter Crist Associates. Schmidt will continue in his current position until a successor is named.

Chief Financial Officer Frederick "Fritz" Henderson said, "Paul has made tremendous contributions to General Motors over 37 years in the finance organization. Having worked in a number of different positions and operations throughout GM, he has been a tremendous resource to the company on a global scale. And, I'm grateful that he will continue to help GM over the next several months through this transition to a new controller and chief accounting officer."

GM also announced today that its current chief accounting officer, Peter Bible, has elected to resign from the company to pursue other career options, effective June 1, but at the company's request has agreed to continue to support GM during the transition period in a consulting role. "I know the entire GM family joins me in thanking Pete for his service to GM and wishing him the best as he pursues new opportunities," said Henderson.

In addition, GM said it has retained an outside financial advisory firm, AlixPartners, to assist the corporation with a broad range of accounting, financial reporting and related matters. AlixPartners will provide personnel to support the corporation during the transition to a new controller and chief accounting officer, including assisting with assessments of the corporation's internal, financial reporting and disclosure controls and implementing steps to improve them on an ongoing basis.

"One of our key objectives in finance is to minimize risk," said Henderson. "To that end, we are moving quickly to make sure that we have a robust level of internal controls and systems in place - and AlixPartners has tremendous expertise to support this initiative."
