Index and Risk Information

- o Closed end funds, unlike open end funds, are not continuously offered. There is a one time public offering and once issued, shares of closed end funds are sold in the open market through a stock exchange. Shares of closed-end funds frequently trade at a discount to net asset value. The price of the fund's shares is determined by a number of factors, several of which are beyond the control of the fund. Therefore, the fund cannot predict whether its shares will trade at, below or above net asset value.
- o Foreign security markets generally exhibit greater price volatility and are less liquid than the US market. Additionally, this fund focuses its investments in certain geographical regions, thereby increasing its vulnerability to developments in that region and potentially subjecting the fund's shares to greater price volatility

Edgar Filing: BRAZIL FUND INC - Form DEFA14A

- o The Bovespa Index is a total return index weighted by traded volume and is comprised of the most liquid stocks traded on the Sao Paulo Stock Exchange.
- o IFCI - Brazil Index represents the S&P Brazil Investable Total Return series. The term Investable indicates that the stocks and the weights in the S&P index represents the amount that the foreign institutional investors might buy by the virtue of the foreign institutional restrictions plus factoring in minimum market capitalization and liquidity screens. This particular index also measures the impact of reinvestment of gross cash dividends on the price index.
- o iShares MSCI Brazil Index Fund is an exchange-traded fund in the US. The Fund's objective is to provide investment results that correspond to the performance of publicly traded securities in the Brazilian market, as measures by the MSCI Brazil (Free) Index. The Fund invests in a representative sample of index stocks using a "portfolio sampling" technique.
- o Indices are not available for direct investment and include reinvestment of distributions.
