ITEM 1. REPORT TO STOCKHOLDERS

The Central Europe and Russia Fund, Inc.

LETTER TO THE SHAREHOLDERS

Dear Shareholder,

For the six months ended April 30, 2006, the Central Europe and Russia Fund's total return (based on its net asset value per share) was 46.26% in US dollar terms, while its total return based on share price was 27.15%. The fund's benchmark rose 53.28% during the same period.<sup>1</sup> (Past performance is no guarantee of future results. Please see page 3 for more complete performance information.)

During the first quarter of 2006, the Russian RTX index was among the top ten best performing markets in the world, boosted by soaring commodity prices, strong domestic liquidity, and inflows of foreign funds attracted by high oil prices and interest in Gazprom shares ahead of the implementation of the full liberalization of local shares. As the index continued to gain ground, concerns of an asset bubble began to increase. While the extensive IPO pipeline scheduled to come out of Russia over the next 12 to 18 months may provide new investment opportunities that could attract new global investors to the Russian market, some are concerned that there could be an excess supply of new shares flooding the market. As a result, stock selection will become increasingly important. Overall, the Fund's positioning in Russia contributed positively to performance as several holdings in the oil and gas sector posted strong gains, in-line with the Fund management's view that higher commodity prices would persist through the first quarter of 2006. During the reporting period, the Fund initiated positions in natural gas company, Novatek, and cosmetics company Kalina while reducing its position in food retailer, Pyaterochka Holding.

In Turkey, strong fundamentals such as easing domestic interest rates, GNP growth, and rising corporate earnings have been supportive of equity markets. However, market performance continues to be affected by global liquidity concerns coupled with nervousness regarding Turkey's progress on negotiations with the EU and the IMF. Signs of rising foreign direct investment, spurred by the success in 2005 of several key privatizations after years of delay notably Turk Telekom, Tupras, Petkim and Erdemir could become a source of optimism for the market. Electricity distribution projects and state banks are on the privatization agenda, and almost all the banks that lack a major international partner are potential M&A targets. During the reporting period, Fund performance benefited from holdings in the Turkish financial sector, one of the Fund's main investment themes. Despite the existence of compelling valuations and investment themes, the Turkish market continues to be subject to significant volatility related to political and macroeconomic developments. As a result, it will be important to monitor these developments closely.

The Czech equity market trades on an estimated P/E of 17.9x for 2005, and forecast P/Es of 19.2x for 2006, which not only places the Czech equity market on higher valuations than its Central European peers, Hungary and Poland, but also most Western European markets (though the limited number of stocks in the Czech benchmark means it is not necessarily representative of the broader market). Despite these rather lofty valuations, the market could still add to its total return figure over the balance of 2006 due to steady earnings growth and high dividends from a number of blue-chip stocks. Currently, the weighting of Czech stocks within the portfolio remains well below that of the Fund's benchmark, but the Fund may look to increase its exposure to Czech equities during periods of market turbulence. The good dividend yields offered by a few Czech stocks combined with the country's favorable macroeconomic environment and benign political situation may allow some Czech equities to hold up better than other East European stocks in market downturns.

Hungarian blue-chips are reasonably valued, with some shares, if not overly attractive, offering good upside potential from either company-specific factors or from sector trends. However, due to growing concerns over the imbalances in the Hungarian economy, the Hungarian equity market is likely to find the going tougher than other markets across the region.

The Polish equity market is causing a bit of debate due to the conflicting outlooks it presents from a top-down versus bottom-up perspective. The top-down story for Poland remains appealing and may even be improving. GDP estimates have been raised, interest rates have been reduced, and funds continue to flow into both pension and mutual funds. Counterbalancing these positives, though, are some more fundamental bottom-up negatives including lofty valuations, and modest earnings growth estimates.

However, there are signs that investor risk tolerance may be substantially declining, which could ultimately make Poland a more attractive market compared to higher beta markets such as Turkey and Russia. During the reporting period, the Fund initiated positions in two Polish banks PKO Bank Polski and Bank PBK (Bank Prezemyslowo-Handlowy PBK).

The Fund's discount to net asset value averaged 4.25% during the six months ended April 30, 2006.

ECONOMIC OUTLOOK

Czech Republic:

Economic activity appears to be at the top of the cycle, with GDP growth reported at 6.9% year-over-year (y-o-y) in the fourth quarter of 2005. The structure of GDP looked healthy, as exports remained the key driver. Most recent indicators on industrial output and retail sales have confirmed the positive trend in these data points into Q1 2006 and are likely to be sustained through the first half of the year. Currently many forecasters have the full-2006 pace of GDP growth penciled in at above 5% y-o-y, and expect a slight shift in the GDP structure away from exports towards private consumption and capital formation. Wage growth is set to stay moderate and unemployment is set to decline only marginally, leaving little scope for demand-led inflationary pressures. The CPI level was elevated by energy prices at the start of 2006. While some second-round impacts are to be expected in coming months, the core CPI will likely be little affected.

Hungary:

Exports supported by a weak Hungarian Forint (HUF) and stronger European Union (EU) demand together with a slight pick-up in household consumption should broadly counterbalance the possible sharp slowdown of investments (zero/slightly negative y-o-y investment growth) and keep GDP growth rate around 4.2% y-o-y in 2006. The current account is projected to deteriorate by about EUR 1 billion from the 2005 level, which would place it at 8.2% of GDP in 2006. The cashflow-based government budget deficit has reached 45% of the year-end target and will likely overshoot the HUF 1,500 billion target by around HUF 250 billion without any modification in the budget bill. A higher Q1 2006 CPI figure - up 3.5% over Q1 2005 - means that further monetary easing is unlikely over the near term. The potential increase in the discount VAT rate, a weaker HUF and slightly accelerating household demand all point to upside inflation risks.

Poland:

Growth prospects remain very favorable, and consensus GDP growth forecasts have been raised for 2006 from 4.5% to 5%. Industrial production grew by 9.6% year-on-year in January, 9.8% year-on-year in February and 10.2% year-on-year in March, driven by even higher manufacturing due to continuously strong export demand. Exports grew by 19.8% in March 2006, enabling the current account deficit to narrow to around 1.4% of GDP. This positive trend in exports is likely to continue as Western Europe's economy is gaining speed. Poland's economy is closely integrated into the German investment cycle and both capital goods industries and construction should benefit substantially from this year's investment-driven pick-up in Germany. So far, Polish growth has been mainly supported by external demand and investment. However, with employment growing at close to 2.5% plus wages growing at 2-3% in real terms, aggregate real household income is now rising by 5-6%. Therefore, private consumption growth should pick up, as reflected by nominal retail sales which show growth of 8.6% in January, 10.2% in February, and 9% in March.

Russia:

January through March was characterized by exceptionally cold weather conditions, which had a temporary impact on almost all economic performance indicators: investment growth turned into the red, industrial production growth fell at 1% y-o-y despite good momentum in business confidence indicators, and household consumption "slowed" to circa 10% y-o-y. The impact on fiscal and foreign trade balances was counter-balanced by higher-than-expected oil prices, as both the fiscal balance and the trade balance reached all-time high surpluses. However, the structure of GDP growth continues to deteriorate (i.e., more driven by household demand fuelled by a looser fiscal policy), resulting in potentially higher inflation (core YTD inflation is up 3.2% through April) and a worsening ex-oil trade balance. Key risks to the economy remain the lack of reforms, capacity constraints, inflation and a weak long-term political outlook, but with net debt to GDP negative, structural risks are likely to remain in the back seat for now.

Turkey:

GNP surprised on the upside in Q4, pushing the full-year growth to 7.6% compared to expectations of 6%. Private investment spending, up 42% y-o-y, remains strong, with corporates continuing to show confidence in the government's reform program, and the start of EU accession talks clearly playing their part. Private consumption spending rose 16.7% y-o-y in Q4, while the lack of growth in government spending provides some comfort and support in discussions with the IMF. As of April, CPI is up 8.2% year-on-year and will need to be monitored as EU negotiations progress. We expect a budget deficit below the 2% of GDP seen in 2005 and debt to GDP heading under the Maastricht target of 60% by the end of 2007. The current account (C/A) deficit remains a significant risk with a C/A deficit to GNP ratio of 7% possible this year. FDI covering at least 60% of this year's C/A deficit is expected, with potential to the upside (depending on M&A activity). Foreign exchange reserves are close to six months of imported goods and services, above the Emerging Market average of around five months.

This Fund is not diversified and may focus its investments in certain geographical regions, thereby increasing its vulnerability to developments in that region. Investing in foreign securities presents certain unique risks not associated with domestic investments, such as currency fluctuation and political and economic changes and market risks. This may result in greater share price volatility.

Shares of closed-end funds frequently trade at a discount to net asset value. The price of the Fund's shares is determined by a number of factors, several of which are beyond the control of the Fund. Therefore, the Fund cannot predict whether its shares will trade at, below or above net asset value. Closed-end funds, unlike open-end funds, are not continuously offered. There is a one-time public offering, and once issued, shares of closed-end funds are sold in the open market through a stock exchange.

The Fund is complying with the German tax transparency rules for the current fiscal year that ends on October 31, 2006 and therefore qualifies as a transparent fund within the meaning of the German fund tax law (InvStG 2004).

INTERVIEW WITH THE LEAD PORTFOLIO MANAGER Ralf Oberbanscheidt

Question: As this summer's G-8 summit approaches, the US has become increasingly critical of the Russian government. What are the reasons for this and what are the implications for the financial markets in Russia?

Answer: Russia's chairmanship of the G-8 got off to a rocky start this year when state-controlled Gazprom cut off the gas supply to Ukraine amidst a pricing dispute, causing some to question Russia's reliability as an energy supplier for Europe and accuse President Putin of using energy supply as a policy tool. The US has been critical of the advancement of democracy under President Putin for some time, but recent developments including the Gazprom price increases and the Russian government's decision to ban imports of selected goods from Georgia, Moldova, and Ukraine have raised questions about the government's role in the economy. Although President Bush is expected to attend the G-8 summit, there is speculation that he will give President Putin a lukewarm reception. Nonetheless, in an environment of sustained high energy and commodity prices, the incentive to invest in commodity-rich markets, such as Russia, is likely to outweigh the impact of any negative political sentiment, though some short-term volatility is possible. However, investors will be closely monitoring the government's involvement in company affairs and are likely to favor those companies that have a strong relationship with the government.

Question: Recent political, economic, and market developments in Turkey suggest that the stability of the past few years may be in question. Could you comment on the reasons for this and the prospects for a return to stability?

Answer: Due to a variety of factors, 2006 is turning out to be a relatively turbulent year for Turkey. The current account deficit continues to be the most significant issue on the macroeconomic front, as the government struggles to contain spending. Amidst reports of higher-than-expected inflation and concerns that the current account deficit will reach 7% of GDP this year (compared to initial forecasts for 6% of GDP), Turkey's currency has depreciated sharply. In addition, the government has faced political difficulty over a variety of issues, leading to speculation that early elections may be necessary. From an economic perspective, the currency depreciation should boost Turkish exports, and GDP growth is still expected to remain strong. However, the recent instability underscores the importance of the IMF program as well as eventual European Union ("EU") membership as a real possibility for Turkey to work toward.

Question: Lithuania's application to adopt the euro next year was recently rejected. Meanwhile, Latvia and Estonia have postponed their timeline for adopting the euro. How does this impact plans for euro adoption by the CE-3 countries?

Answer: The EU recently accepted Slovenia's bid to adopt the euro in 2007 while rejecting Lithuania's application for failure to meet all of the Maastricht criteria. In particular, Lithuania's inflation, at 3.5%, is higher than the target rate. Several of the fifteen original EU countries were given leniency on meeting the Maastricht criteria when the euro was introduced in 1999, but amidst growing political opposition to enlargement, the EU is clearly sending a signal that it will not provide any leniency to new EU members. Because the Czech Republic, Hungary, and Poland are not planning to adopt the euro until at least 2010, the rejection of Lithuania's application has no immediate impact on their plans to adopt the euro. However, it will be important to monitor whether the EU continues to strictly enforce the Maastricht criteria, which some argue are outdated and fail to take into account the fact that higher inflation is a by-product of the current macroeconomic environment of high growth rates in the new EU countries, coupled with high oil prices.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS APRIL 30, 2006 (unaudited)

NOTE 1. ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The Central Europe and Russia Fund, Inc. is a non-diversified, closed-end management investment company incorporated in Maryland. The Fund commenced investment operations on March 6, 1990.

The following is a summary of significant accounting policies followed by the Fund in the preparation of its financial statements. The preparation of financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Security Valuation: Investments are stated at value. All securities for which market quotations are readily available are valued at the last sales price on the primary exchange on which they are traded prior to the time of valuation. If no sales price is available at that time, and both bid and ask prices are available, the securities are valued at the mean between the last current bid and ask prices; if no quoted asked prices are available, they are valued at the last quoted bid price. All securities for which market quotations are not readily available will be valued as determined in good faith by the Board of Directors of the Fund. The Fund calculates its net asset value per share at 11:30 A.M., New York time, in order to minimize the possibility that events occurring after the close of the securities exchanges on which the Fund's portfolio securities principally trade would require adjustment to the closing market prices in order to reflect fair value.

Securities Transactions and Investment Income: Securities transactions are recorded on the trade date. Cost of securities sold is calculated using the identified cost method. Dividend income is recorded on the ex-dividend date and interest income is recorded on an accrual basis. Such dividend income is recorded net of unrecoverable foreign withholding tax.

Securities Lending: The Fund may lend securities to financial institutions. The Fund retains beneficial ownership of the securities it has loaned and continues to receive interest and dividends paid by the securities and to participate in any changes in their market value. The Fund requires the borrowers of the securities to maintain collateral with the Fund consisting of liquid, unencumbered assets having a value at least equal to or greater than the "Margin Percentage" of the value of the securities loaned. "Margin Percentage" shall mean (i) for collateral which is denominated in the same currency as the loaned securities, 102%, and (ii) for collateral which is denominated in a currency different from that of the loaned securities, 105%. The Fund may invest the cash collateral into a joint trading account in an affiliated money market fund pursuant to Exemptive Orders issued by the SEC. Deutsche Asset Management receives a management fee on the cash collateral invested in the affiliated money fund. The Fund receives compensation for lending its securities either in the form of fees or by earning interest on invested cash collateral net of fees paid to a lending agent. Either the Fund or the borrower may terminate the loan. The Fund is subject to all investment risks associated with the value of any cash collateral received, including, but not limited to, interest rate, credit and liquidity risk associated with such investments.

Foreign Currency Translation: The books and records of the Fund are maintained in United States dollars.

Assets and liabilities denominated in euros and other foreign currency are translated into United States dollars at the 11:00 A.M. mid-point of the buying and selling spot rates quoted by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Purchases and sales of investment securities, income and expenses are reported at the rate of exchange prevailing on the respective dates of such transactions. The resultant gains and losses arising from exchange rate fluctuations are identified separately in the Statement of Operations, except for such amounts attributable to investments, which are included in net realized and unrealized gains and losses on investments.

Contingencies: In the normal course of business, the Fund may enter into contracts with service providers that contain general indemnification clauses. The Fund's maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown as this would involve future claims that may be made against the Fund that have not yet occurred. However, based on experience, the Fund expects the risk of loss to be remote.

THE CENTRAL EUROPE AND RUSSIA FUND, INC.

Taxes: No provision has been made for United States Federal income tax because the Fund intends to meet the requirements of the United States Internal Revenue Code applicable to regulated investment companies and to distribute substantially all of its taxable income to shareholders.

Dividends and Distributions to Shareholders: The Fund records dividends and distributions to its shareholders on the ex-dividend date. Income and capital gain distributions are determined in accordance with United States Federal income tax regulations which may differ from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. These differences, which could be temporary or permanent in nature, may result in reclassification of distributions; however, net investment income, net realized gains and net assets are not affected.

NOTE 2. MANAGEMENT AND INVESTMENT ADVISORY AGREEMENTS

The Fund has a Management Agreement with Deutsche Investment Management Americas Inc. (the "Manager.") The Fund has an Investment Advisory Agreement with Deutsche Asset Management International GmbH (the "Investment Adviser.") The Manager and the Investment Adviser are affiliated companies.

The Management Agreement provides the Manager with a fee, computed weekly and payable monthly, at the annual rates of .65% of the Fund's average weekly net assets up to $100 million, and .55% of such assets in excess of $100 million. The Investment Advisory Agreement provides the Investment Adviser with a fee, computed weekly and payable monthly, at the annual rates of .35% of the Fund's average weekly net assets up to $100 million and .25% of such assets in excess of $100 million. Accordingly, for the period ended April 30, 2006, the fee pursuant to the Management and Investment Advisory Agreements was equivalent to an annualized effective rate of .81% of the Fund's average net assets.

Pursuant to the Management Agreement, the Manager is the corporate manager and administrator of the Fund and, subject to the supervision of the Board of Directors and pursuant to recommendations made by the Fund's Investment Adviser, determines the suitable securities for investment by the Fund. The Manager also provides office facilities and certain administrative, clerical and bookkeeping services for the Fund. Pursuant to the Investment Advisory Agreement, the Investment Adviser, in accordance with the Fund's stated investment objective, policies and restrictions, makes recommendations to the Manager with respect to the Fund's investments and, upon instructions given by the Manager as to suitable securities for investment by the Fund, transmits purchase and sale orders to select brokers and dealers to execute portfolio transactions on behalf of the Fund.

NOTE 3. TRANSACTIONS WITH AFFILIATES

Certain officers of the Fund are also officers of either the Manager or Deutsche Bank AG.

The Fund pays each Director not affiliated with the Manager retainer fees plus specified amounts for attended board and committee meetings.

NOTE 4. PORTFOLIO SECURITIES

Purchases and sales of investment securities, other than short-term investments, for the year ended April 30, 2006 were $219,594,549 and $102,395,427, respectively.

The cost of investments at April 30, 2006 was $361,940,761 for United States Federal income tax purposes. Accordingly, as of April 30, 2006, net unrealized appreciation of investments aggregated $438,025,010, of which $439,067,630 and $1,042,620 related to unrealized appreciation and depreciation, respectively.

NOTE 5. INVESTING IN FOREIGN MARKETS

Foreign investments may involve certain considerations and risks not typically associated with those of domestic origin as a result of, among others, the possibility of political and economic developments and the level of governmental supervision and regulation of foreign securities markets. In addition, certain foreign markets may be substantially smaller, less developed, less liquid and more volatile than the major markets of the United States.

NOTE 6. CAPITAL AND RIGHTS OFFERING

The Fund had no capital stock repurchase activity for the period ended April 30, 2006. During the six months ended April 30, 2006, the Fund reissued 388,226 shares held in treasury as part of the dividend reinvestment plan.

During January 2006, the Fund issued 3,417,070 shares of common stock in connection with a rights offering of the Fund's shares. Shareholders of record on December 19, 2005 were issued one transferable right for each share owned. The rights entitled the shareholders to purchase one new share of common stock for every three rights held. These shares were issued at a subscription price of $40.19. Net proceeds to the Fund were $131,742,212 after deducting the solicitation/dealer manager fees of $5,148,591 and expenses of $400,276. The net asset value per share of the Fund's common shareholders was reduced by approximately $3.25 per share as a result of the share issuance.

The computation does not reflect any sales commission investors may incur in purchasing or selling shares of the Fund. The total investment return based on the net asset value is similarly computed except that the Fund's net asset value is substituted for the closing market value.

* Return excludes the effect of the $2.15 and $3.25 respectively, for 2004 and 2006 per share dilution associated with the Fund's rights offering.

** The custody credits are attributable to interest earned on U.S. cash balances. The ratios of total expenses after custody credits to average net assets are 1.01%, 1.19%, 1.26%, 1.50%, 1.54% and 1.62% for 2006, 2005, 2004, 2003, 2002 and 2001, respectively.

***** Not Annualized. The ratio for the six months ended April 30, 2006 has not been annualized since the Fund believes it would not be appropriate because the Fund's dividend income is not earned ratably throughout the fiscal year.

These funds are not diversified and focus their investments in certain geographical regions, thereby increasing their vulnerability to developments in those regions.
