Presentation to Investors (August 2007)

Board Recommendation

The Board of Directors believes that the Tornante/MDP merger is in the best interest of stockholders and therefore recommends to vote FOR the proposed transaction.

Management's successful restructuring was instrumental in receiving the attractive $9.75 price

Topps faces significant company-specific and broader industry challenges

The transaction offers stockholders certainty of value in a volatile credit market and at attractive valuation multiples and premium

The offer is the ONLY binding offer received as a result of an extensive and thorough process that started over two years ago

The 40-day Go-Shop period provided for an effective and thorough market check of Tornante/MDP's offer, as confirmed by the Delaware Court's opinion

Despite the clearance of HSR hurdles, Upper Deck's current offer presents open issues that prevent a consensual agreement at this time but Topps continues to negotiate with Upper Deck

The Board continues to recommend stockholders to vote FOR the $9.75 per share offer by Tornante/MDP and has not changed its recommendation that stockholders reject the $10.75 per share offer by Upper Deck

Crescendo has made no competing offer, its plan is vague and offers nothing new, and its margin and price expectations are unrealistic

Current Business Dynamics

In 2005, Topps launched a restructuring program

Enhanced earnings and profitability

Addressed headwinds facing both businesses

Success of which was instrumental in receiving the attractive $9.75 per share offer

Significant company-specific and broader industry challenges exist

Confectionery segment: Topps is sub-scale player in a consolidating and increasingly competitive environment

Entertainment segment: decline of the U.S. Sports Trading Cards market over the last decade

Significant business risks remain going forward

Management's plan is underpinned by a number of critical assumptions characterized by substantial execution risk

High projected growth for Confectionery depends mostly on success of new product introductions

Strong Entertainment growth predicated on revival of U.S. Sports Trading Cards market and successful turnaround of WizKids

Environment of increasing raw material prices in Confectionery with questionable ability to pass to consumers through pricing

Ongoing sale process creating disruption within the organization and draining of human resources

Significant management departures

Q1 FY2008 proved success of ongoing efforts to revitalize U.S. Sports while highlighting continued challenges in Confectionery

Year-on-year, operating profit increased by $3.6 million to $5.2 million in Q1 FY2008, primarily due to benefits resulting from our restructuring efforts and improvement in our U.S. Sports Card business

Entertainment: Year-on-year, operating profit increased by $4.4 million to $4.8 million in Q1 FY2008 primarily due to higher U.S. Sports Cards sales and lower returns

Confectionery: Year-on-year, operating profit decreased by $1.7 million to $5.1 million in Q1 FY2008 primarily due to lower sales volume against fixed costs

Tornante/MDP Transaction Maximizes Stockholder Value

The Tornante/MDP transaction is the culmination of the Board's extensive, multi-year process to maximize stockholder value.

Average closing price for the 2-weeks period that preceded the announcement of the settlement of the proxy contest with Pembridge Capital prior to the 2006 AGM (July 28, 2006).

The Tornante/MDP transaction offers stockholders certainty of value at attractive valuation multiples and premium

$9.75 per share cash offer is the ONLY binding offer received

Permitted to pay a Q4 FY2007 dividend of $0.04 per share (effectively raising offer to $9.79 per share)

High implied valuation multiples

Offer price represents a 21% premium over the unaffected market price ⁽¹⁾

High probability of closing shortly after stockholders approval

Unusually high level of equity contribution enabled the attractive price received

High equity contribution of $191 million (54% of acquisition financing)

Extraordinary offer in today's market environment

The Tornante/MDP transaction is NOT a management led buy-out

Process was at all times driven by key outside independent directors

There is NO agreement in place with any member of management regarding continued employment or compensation

Topps CEO, who is also the Company's largest individual stockholder, strongly believes that this transaction maximizes
stockholder value

In order to facilitate the transaction, he agreed to step down and to surrender $2.8 million of compensation to which he was entitled under the change of control provisions in his existing employment agreement

Background To The Merger

The transaction is the result of an extensive and thorough process that started over two years ago.

The $9.75 offer by Tornante/MDP is the ONLY binding offer received.

Process Update

On June 14, 2007, the Delaware Court issued a preliminary injunction:

Enjoined Topps from proceeding with shareholder vote until (i) Topps made additional disclosures to stockholders, and (ii) Upper

Deck was released from standstill obligations to make its tender offer

Nonetheless, validated the process to arrive to the Tornante/MDP transaction and the Go-Shop period as a viable market check

Topps Board released Upper Deck from its standstill obligations and, on June 25, 2007, Upper Deck commenced a tender offer to purchase all outstanding shares of Topps for $10.75 in cash

On June 16, 2007, Upper Deck provided a debt financing commitment letter executed by CIBC

The Tender Offer is not subject to financing but is highly conditional

Originally scheduled to expire on July 24, 2007, it was extended to August 10, 2007 and again to August 29, 2007

Submitted HSR Filing on July 2, 2007, later withdrawn and re-filed on July 19, 2007

On July 9, 2007, Topps Board unanimously recommended against Upper Deck's tender offer

Terms of the offer substantially similar to those of Upper Deck's proposal of April 12, 2007 and May 21, 2007

Board reaffirmed recommendation for Tornante/MDP merger while reserving the right to seek a superior offer from Upper Deck
and eventually modify its recommendation to stockholders

On July 31, 2007, Topps announced that special meeting of stockholders to vote on Tornante/MDP transaction has been rescheduled for August 30, 2007

Filed additional proxy documentation to comply with the Delaware Court's order

On August 6, 2007, Topps announced it had been advised by Upper Deck that HSR antitrust waiting period had expired

Topps Board continues to negotiate with Upper Deck in an effort to reach a consensual agreement

Despite Topps' diligent efforts and sense of urgency to get a deal done, we have not yet been successful in reaching a consensual deal with Upper Deck

Efforts are ongoing

Crescendo Lacks Credibility

We believe Crescendo's motives are self-serving and NOT in the best interest of all of Topps' stockholders

Stated intention to take over the Company WITHOUT paying a premium to stockholders

Crescendo's turnaround plan is vague and many of the initiatives have already been successfully implemented by Topps' incumbent management

Eric Rosenfeld and Arnaud Ajdler of Crescendo lack meaningful relevant operational experience

CONFECTIONERY Business opportunities :

COGS reduction is based on faulty comparison (implied 10% cost reduction opportunity to bring in line with peers)

Unspecified top-line opportunities

ENTERTAINMENT Business opportunities :

Expansion into trading games and interactive card games currently being implemented

Product innovation (high end collectibles, kids) is already at the core of Topps management plan and presently being implemented

Unspecified licensing initiatives

Overhead opportunities were identified by Topps management and presented to potential bidders

Crescendo's unrealistic margin and price expectations reflect a lack of understanding of the Company's strategic positioning and industry economics

Crescendo's expectation that Topps can achieve profitability in line with companies of the likes of Hershey, Wrigley, Cadbury Schweppes is at best unrealistic

Crescendo's target $16 to $18 share price in two years is calculated on the basis of aggressive and questionable assumptions

Crescendo Lacks Credibility (cont'd)

The Topps Board is TRULY committed to maximizing value for ALL Topps stockholders - Crescendo is NOT Crescendo's inconsistent statements raise questions about their credibility and ultimately highlight their true intentions: to take over Topps without paying a premium to stockholders

Delaware Court noted that the Dissident Directors were full of ideas ideas that diverged widely. Their view of Topps's value do not suggest that the Topps board's approach was off the mark. One estimate of Ajdler was that Topps would fetch $9.50 to $10.50 per share in an open auction. Indeed, that estimate was based on optimistic projections of Topps's future cash flows.

Delaware Court noted Arnaud Ajdler's fluctuating views - In November 2006, Ajdler suggested that a price target of $10.00 per share, might dissuade potential bidders

As per the Delaware Court's opinion, Arnaud Ajdler was upset that Greenberg mentioned a $10.00 per share price [to Michael Eisner] without Ad Hoc Committee approval. But he based his concern on the fact that a price that high may scare off Eisner (Tornante/MDP was bidding $9.24 per share at the time)

In January 2007, Arnaud Ajdler recommended a special dividend in lieu of a buyback because the prevailing trading price (ranging from $8.91 to $9.08 since October 2006) did not justify a buyback

Delaware Court further noted that the lead director Allan Feder invited Ajdler to participate in negotiations with Tornante/MDP, but Ajdler preferred carping as a backseat driver

Why doesn't Crescendo make an offer for Topps?

Crescendo has made wild claims that Topps stock will be worth $16-$18 per share in two years

If Crescendo TRULY believes what they claim it could make an offer to acquire Topps at a premium

Topps Board is committed to maximizing value to stockholders and would welcome an approach at the suggested price level
